

Executive Briefing: How to Minimize Liability from a Data Breach or Cyber Attack on a Limited Budget

Is your company prepared to address:

- identity theft resulting from lost or stolen Social Security numbers or credit card, driver's license, or financial information of your customers, clients or employees?
- lawsuits, fines and civil penalties stemming from a loss or theft of data that results in damages to your customers?
- a business interruption caused by a cyber breach, hack, malware or spyware?
- a cyber extortion threat?
- costs related to privacy notification, crisis management, and disaster recovery?

Please join us on December 2, 2015 for an interactive panel discussion and briefing on these very real and immediate concerns that virtually every business faces on a daily basis. Our panel of Cybersecurity authorities will lead the discussion and provide practical advice and cost-effective solutions. Our panelists include:

- Harris Tsangaris, Managing Director, NFP P&C, The Meltzer Group
- Curtis Levinson, United States Cyber Defense Advisor to NATO
- Matt Bergman, Co-Chair of Shulman Rogers Cybersecurity Practice
- Matt Stern, Vice President and Chief Information Security Officer of Intelligent Waves
