Terry Sullivan excels at developing creative solutions to complex real estate issues. He brings a mission- and results-oriented approach to each transaction he undertakes. Terry's clients benefit from his attention to detail and his enthusiasm for real estate development.

Terry successfully represents clients in the acquisition and sale of real property. His significant experience in drafting, reviewing and negotiating agreements and other related documents allows his homebuilder clients to focus on other issues, confident that Terry has everything covered.

After earning his B.A. from The Catholic University of America in the District of Columbia, Terry obtained his J.D. from St. Mary's University of Texas. He then returned to the D.C. area and entered private practice. Terry is admitted to practice in Maryland and the District of Columbia.
