Danny Krakower is a business attorney and corporate advisor. In his 30+ years of legal practice, he has counseled many individuals and businesses on entity formation and structuring issues and business planning matters. He helps clients effectively navigate the legal and business challenges they face and has a particular talent for resolving partnership and shareholder disputes (corporate divorce). Danny's sound, well-reasoned guidance has proven essential to the success of his clients, as evidenced by the number of companies he has represented throughout the lifecycle of their business.

Danny often serves businesses as an unofficial "general counsel" for clients' companies, developing an understanding of their day-to-day operations, and establishing relationships with key personnel. Gaining this level of insight, he is well-positioned to not only react to legal issues that may arise, but to also be proactive in helping the business avoid potential legal issues.
