SHULMAN ROGERS

Driving While Intoxicated

We understand that responsible people sometimes make poor choices – and that what you may have done does not reflect who you are. A conviction of Driving While Intoxicated can lead to substantial fines, jail time and suspension or revocation of your driver's license, as well as tremendous emotional stress for you and your entire family.

Our team has significant experience successfully defending individuals accused of driving while intoxicated. We skillfully conduct thorough investigations and manage every aspect of your case.

We evaluate the circumstances that led to your traffic stop, assess all of the evidence (or lack of evidence), and investigate the efficacy of field sobriety tests and potential violations of your constitutional rights. Our team will develop a strategy to fight for dismissal and protect you from the implications of a conviction for driving while intoxicated.

If you or someone you love has been charged with DWI, it is important to understand that punishment can come from both the judicial system AND the Motor Vehicle Administration. We routinely represent clients before the MVA and help them avoid the negative ramifications of a guilty verdict. Making important decisions in a timely manner can help avert certain mandatory suspensions from going into effect.

Schedule a consultation with our team by calling or contacting our office today.