Mickey Hartz uses his broad litigation skills to represent businesses and individuals in any manner of dispute.

Clients appreciate his ability to translate complex legal matters into plain English. Mickey's ability to work collaboratively with all parties is an asset in any negotiation and helps him achieve his client's desired outcomes.

Before joining Shulman Rogers, Mickey was with Willkie Farr & Gallagher LLP, where he focused his practice on federal government investigations and regulatory analysis in the commodities and derivatives space. In this role, he helped clients navigate daunting legal challenges involving government regulators.

Mickey earned his B.A. and M.P.P. from the University of Maryland and his J.D. from the University of Pennsylvania Law School. Before beginning his legal career, he was a volunteer law clerk for the Environment and Natural Resources Division (ENRD) of the DOJ. He also spent time interning with the Office of the Maryland Attorney General, and the State's Attorney's Office in Montgomery County. When not practicing law, Mickey enjoys playing live music, hiking, skiing and watching Big Ten college basketball.
