Trucking Accidents

A tractor-trailer or other heavy truck crash requires experienced counsel to investigate and litigate the accident. Injuries suffered in trucking accidents are usually severe and often result in death. Immediate resources and experts are required to investigate the accident, secure and preserve black box data and video, inspect the truck and perform accident reconstruction. A knowledge of Federal and State regulations relating to trucking is essential.

Shulman Rogers attorneys Karl Protil, Mike Nakamura and Todd Pilot have decades of experience in investigating and litigating against negligent truck drivers and their companies and a proven track record of securing successful results for their clients. Shulman Rogers' attorneys have recovered millions of dollars for their clients for truck accident cases, representing individuals and their families throughout the East Coast including Maryland, Washington, DC and Virginia.
